Spread Wing Offense by Coach James Thurman The Wing-T has been a staple of high school football for the last 50 years. Too many times if you see a Wing-T team get behind in a game they are destined to stay that way based on their inability to present a true drop back passing threat. When most of these

One of the things that gets me real excited is when coaches take a certain element of one offense, in this case the Delaware Wing-T (which was the first offense I ran as a coach way back in 1993 thru 1995) and blend it with the shot gun spread offense. In the video below, you'll see highlights of wing-t plays ran solely out of the shot-gun (trips) formation, with the dual threat QB executing the run plays usually run by the tailback.

In 2011, we needed to throw the ball more. So we backed our QB up and ran our Wing T offense out of the PISTOL FORMATION. Running the Wing T out of the Pistol formation allows you to: Pass the Ball easier: QB has depth to read defense and you are in 2x2 and 3x1 sets; Read Unblocked Defenders: Run the ball in opposite direction that they go!
